Last Modified on 01/15/2026 9:16 am EST

We're launching SyncRoom in Early Access — a new way to manage your Exalate integrations from a single, connection-focused interface.

With this first release, you can:

- Configure both sides of the connection in one place
- Use version control to track and manage connection changes
- Run a Test Run before going live to ensure everything works as expected
